JAMES E. WEST
IS HONOR GUEST
IN CITY SATURDAY

WILL STOP HERE ON TRIP FROM SEATTLE, WASH., TO ST.
JOSEPH, MISSOURI

IDOL OF THREE MILLION BOYS
TO BE FETED AT BANQUET
NOVEMBER 20

James E. West, Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America, is to be the honored guest of Brainerd and the territory included in this Council Saturday, November 20th. This is the only community that Mr. West is stopping in on his trip from Seattle, Washington to St. Joseph, Missouri. Brainerd is proud of the honor extended by his contemplated visit.

Brainerd is the smallest community as far as known that Mr. West has ever stopped in. H. F. Pote, Regional Executive, at his office in St. Paul received word last week that Mr. West was leaving Seattle on Nov. 2 over the Northern Pacific to pass through St. Paul on his way to St. Joseph. After carefully studying the time schedule he found it would be possible, with Mr. West's consent, to leave his train at Staples, board the Duluth train and get to Brainerd at 6 o'clock Saturday, November 20th. Upon learning of this fact, in the interest of Scouting in this northern Council, Mr. Pote kept the telegraph wires hot, making sure that Mr. West would leave on No. 2, arranging such a program with his Secretary and lastly, getting Mr. West's personal confirmation that he would accept this change. In spite of Mr. West's strenuous trip and the many details of handling such an enormous national movement for boys, he gladly accepted the invitation.

Every Scout and every boy who has ever been a Scout will no doubt feel his heart beat faster at the thought of an opportunity to meet Mr. West in person. He is the idol of over three million boys in this country who are either active now or have been in the last few years as Scouts. The saying "Once a Scout Always a Scout" will bring every present or past Scout to the depot to meet him with a rousing cheer Saturday, Nov. 20th.

A dinner is to be given in his honor at the Chamber of Commerce at 6 o'clock sharp Saturday. This will be for men and their wives only as there is not room to care for the boys. Mr. West will however stop at the depot long enough to talk to the boys for a few minutes.

PROGRAMIN MATTER OF SLEEP SHE GAINS
5, 6 OR 8 HOURS, AS CASE MAY BE

By JOHN MONTGOMERY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Aboard Queen Marie's Special Train in Chicago, Nov. 16.—Obviously exhausted by the continual round of social events planned in her honor, Queen Marie is making a valiant attempt to carry on.

Her majesty feels that she must be game. Several days ago she expressed her intention of going through with the American visit no matter how exhaustive it becomes. Although she slept eight hours last night, she had less than five the night before and six the night before that. Nicholas has already complained of the little rest he receives and members of the royal party are often missing at early morning affairs.

All of the royal family feel that they are getting insufficient exercise. Nicholas has often expressed this belief, but his sister, Ileana, was the first to skip the morning engagements to take a plunge in a club pool yesterday.

Today the royal party will make brief informal visits to a half dozen spots in the city. Her majesty will visit the playgrounds, a hospital and attend a luncheon and a dinner. Similar events for Ileana and Nicholas have been planned.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 16.—Opposition to the city's plans for Queen Marie of Rumania's visit here next Monday kept civic circles in a turmoil today following a near riot in the council chambers.

Dimitri D. Dimancesco, Rumanian consul here, is "disgusted with the whole affair" and has resigned his post.

Trouble reached a climax last night when Mayor Marshall threatened to have Councilman Peter Witt forcibly ejected from the council chamber when Witt attempted to read a protest against the queen's reception.

Bucharest, Nov. 16.—A rumor was in circulation today that Princess Ileana, the youngest child of King Ferdinand and Queen Marie, who now is accompanying her mother on a visit to the United States, would succeed to the Rumanian throne. The rumor has it that King Ferdinand's abdication was imminent.

Professor Bensaude, a French specialist, arrived and has examined the king. Bensaude said his majesty's condition was satisfactory but it was popularly believed today that Ferdinand was suffering from cancer.

At three o'clock this afternoon the body will be taken from its resting place in the big red house in which Uncle Joe died and carried between two lines of Boy Scouts across the street to the First Methodist church. The Rev. T. N. Ewing will preach the funeral sermon.

TWO FILIPINO
LEGISLATORS
DEFY WOOD

By WILLIAM R. KUHN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Manila, P. I., Nov. 16.—Two Filipino legislative leaders, Manuel Quezon, president of the senate, and Manuel Roxas, speaker of the house of representatives, have defied Governor General Wood in his attempt to take over absolute control of the insular public utilities.

From authentic sources it was learned today that the legislators have addressed a letter to Wood notifying him of their intention to ignore his executive order abolishing the public utilities board of control.

Manila, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Manuel Quezon and Manuel Roxas, members of the Philippines board of control, which Governor General Leonard Wood recently abolished, have given the governor written notice of their refusal to recognize his order.

Consequently the board will meet Saturday to name new directors for the National Coal company, a government concern, which has been controlled by the board. Wood is not expected to attend the meeting though he has received formal notice of it. Quezon and Roxas as the majority members, therefore, will name the directors.

If Wood attempts to name a separate directorate, as legal rulings give him the power to do, he will come into direct conflict with the Filipinos.

Quezon contends that the board of control has sole authority over government enterprises and that when Wood abolished the board he likewise cancelled his own power.

DOCKMASTER JOHN GOBES CERTAIN THAT FOUR PERSONS DROWNED

St. Paul, Nov. 16.—(UP)—A final check today showed four persons missing following the capsizing of a rowboat during a police raid on a houseboat in the Mississippi river early Monday.

One by one, three of the seven persons at first believed drowned turned up, but four others are known to have been last seen in the houseboat.

John Gobes, a dockmaster, who witnessed the raid and subsequent events, said he was certain four persons drowned.

The four missing are: Joseph Becker, Mrs. Jane Pothén, Charles Randall, owner of the houseboat, and Miss Harriet Klemp.

HALL-MILLS
CASE NEARING
ITS CLOSESIMPSON SAYS HE WILL REST
HIS CASE WITH APPEARANCE
OF MRS. JANE GIBSONONLY 65 OF 120 WITNESSES SUB-POENAED THUS FAR HAVE TESTIFIED

By PAUL W. WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 16.—Having spread upon the record of the Somerset county court a graphic history of illicit love and its tragic consequences, the prosecution in the Hall-Mills case today was to touch up some of the minor points in the web of evidence it has spun in an effort to convict Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens.

Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson announced that he will rest his case as soon as Mrs. Jane Gibson, his leading witness, has testified.

Simpson said he hoped to put her on the witness stand tomorrow.

Only 65 of the 120 witnesses subpoenaed by the state thus far have testified.

Oddly enough the state thus far has not called Raymond Schneider, who found the bodies of the rector and his choir singer on the second morning after the murder. It is believed that Schneider, together with Pearl Bahmer, who accompanied him on a hike that led to the discovery of the bodies, will be summoned as a defense witness.

Those expected to testify today include Jane Torbett, said to have seen Henry Stevens in New Brunswick the day after the murder; Peter Sommeres, allied with Felix De Martini as a defense detective; Anthony Silzer, who took affidavits from principals in the case, and Detectives Ferd David and Charles Collins of Middlesex county, in which the Hall and Mills families live.

It is considered possible that Simpson may request an early adjournment until whatever time tomorrow Mrs. Gibson is able to appear.

The reading yesterday of Mrs. Mills' letters to her lover revealed the choir singer to have been swept away by the minister, whose wife was older than himself.

"Darling Babykins" and "Wonder Man" were among the endearments of the choir singer toward the man whose "little finger she loved more than my husband's whole body."

Court Room, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 16.—(UP)—Presence of a group of members of the "Girls Guild" of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, New Brunswick, N. J., in an anteroom today gave promise of the spectators at the Hall-Mills murder trial being treated to another recital of the gossip which went around New Brunswick involving the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills.

Court was delayed in opening today because Senator Alexander Simpson and Senator Howard Case, attorneys for the state and defense respectively, had been called to Trenton last night to attend a legislative caucus.

Court finally adjourned at 10:48 A. M.

Senator Simpson announced that he had no quarrel with the court's decision not to send the jury to the scene, but would like to show photographs of the scene to the jury.

The court suggested a private view of the pictures to see if they should be shown and this was agreed to.

Mrs. Marie M. Lee, younger sister of Mrs. Mills, was the first witness.

Mrs. Lee said she attended social gatherings in Dr. Hall's church, but was not a communicant.

"Do you remember having been at a moving picture show when Eleanor was operating the machine?" asked Simpson.

"Yes," said the witness and went on to tell how Dr. Hall had come up

PITTSBURGH MAN
LOSES $200,000
UNCUT DIAMONDSDAVID DAVIS TELLS HIS STORY
TO POLICE OF ST.
PAULCLAIMS HE WAS FORCED FROM
BUS AND ROBBED BY BANDITS

St. Paul, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Police of the Twin Cities joined today in a search for two bandits who robbed David Davis of Pittsburgh of $200,000 in uncut diamonds Monday night according to his report.

Davis said the bandits forced him from a St. Paul-Minneapolis bus into a waiting automobile, persuaded him to yield the jewelry, which was strapped next to his body in pouches and then threw him out of the moving automobile some distance away.

The merchant said he was a member of the firm of Barnett, Davis & Sons of Pittsburgh; came to Minneapolis Sunday and went to St. Paul Monday to interview a prospective customer.

The robbery occurred during the return trip to Minneapolis. Two men, Davis said, got into the bus behind him and finally one nudged a gun in his side.

Davis was forced to signal for the bus to stop near the St. Paul city limits. He said he tried to attract the attention of the driver without success. The automobile, he said, waiting as though by prearrangement, found a driver at the wheel.

Police found a passenger in the same bus, who said Davis winked frantically as he and the two other men alighted from the bus but were unable to locate the driver.

and placed his right hand in Mrs. Mills' hand.

In 1919, the witness continued, Mrs. Mills told her she loved Dr. Hall and that the "handsome rector" was her "idea of a man."

"Did you ever see Dr. Hall kiss Mrs. Mills?" asked Simpson.

Mrs. Lee replied that she had. She said she entered her sister's home quietly one day and saw the rector kiss Mrs. Mills.

Mrs. Lee told of her sister's plans for a trip to Japan with the rector. Mrs. Mills spoke of the trip in the presence of her husband, the witness said.

Captain Harry W. Walsh, of the Hudson county police, was the next witness.

Walsh said he had gone to the home of Henry Stevens in LaVallette and had taken a statement in the presence of Sergeant Richard Burke and Mrs. Stevens.

The statement was offered in evidence and after several questions on cross examination, was read by Captain Walsh.

Stevens in his statement said he had not been more than a block from his home on the night of the murder.

He said he did not know at the time there was such a woman as Mrs. Mills and had never threatened the rector.

Stevens admitted he was a good shot with a shotgun but said he had not fired a revolver in 25 years.

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 16.—Mrs. Marie Demarest testified in the Hall-Mills murder case today that a detective at one time in the employ of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall had hinted she might receive $2,500 if she would change her story in the murder investigation.

Mrs. Demarest had testified last week that she had seen Henry Stevens, one of the defendants, in New Brunswick the day after the murder.

Stevens had maintained that he did not even know of the murders on that day and did not visit New Brunswick until two or three days after Dr. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills were killed.

ALSO WHERE AND HOW MUCH

AGREEMENT OVER LEGIS-
LATIONUNEQUALLED BY ANY OTHER
LEGISLATIVE PROPOSAL OF
RECENT YEARS

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 16.—There will be a tax reduction soon—but how much, when and where are moot questions which have both the executive and legislative branches of the government puzzled.

Check up of developments at the White House, treasury, house and senate discloses an existing dissatisfaction and disagreement over the legislation, unequalled by any other legislative proposal of recent years.

In the first place the house ways and means committee which must initiate any action upon the administration proposal for a tax cut is in session upon the relatively unimportant matter of alien property claims, with no immediate intention of taking up the tax matter.

Some members of the committee say privately that leaders think it unwise to press the tax reduction question in its present condition, with no two members agreeing what should be done.

Leaders are doing some missionary work to win converts to some modified version of the treasury's proposal. When this plan develops sufficient strength work will be begun upon a bill or resolution, it is said.

In recent tax reductions none of this backstage maneuvering existed. The administration proposal has now been changed thrice. First President Coolidge announced in favor of a 10 to 12 per cent rebate on taxes, paid this year. Next Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, declaring the president had been misunderstood, offered a plan of reducing payments to be made beginning March 15 by 12½ per cent.

Late yesterday the secretary declared the reduction could be increased to 15 per cent in view of new estimates that the treasury surplus this year would reach $400,000,000.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Regardless of the manner in which the present treasury surplus is returned to taxpayers, President Coolidge regards it as a tax reduction. It was said on his behalf at the White House today.

Some confusion had arisen over the terms used in discussing the disposition of the surplus but the presidential spokesman explained his proposal as actual reduction.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 16.—(UP)—One man was killed and four others seriously injured today at De La Croix island, 40 miles south of New Orleans, in a gun battle between trappers and deputy sheriffs.

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 16.—Having spread upon the record of the Somerset county court a graphic history of illicit love and its tragic consequences, the prosecution in the Hall-Mills case today was to touch up some of the minor points in the web of evidence it has spun in an effort to convict Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens.

Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson announced that he will rest his case as soon as Mrs. Jane Gibson, his leading witness, has testified.

Simpson said he hoped to put her on the witness stand tomorrow.

Only 65 of the 120 witnesses subpoenaed by the state thus far have testified.

Oddly enough the state thus far has not called Raymond Schneider, who found the bodies of the rector and his choir singer on the second morning after the murder. It is believed that Schneider, together with Pearl Bahmer, who accompanied him on a hike that led to the discovery of the bodies, will be summoned as a defense witness.

Those expected to testify today include Jane Torbett, said to have seen Henry Stevens in New Brunswick the day after the murder; Peter Sommeres, allied with Felix De Martini as a defense detective; Anthony Silzer, who took affidavits from principals in the case, and Detectives Ferd David and Charles Collins of Middlesex county, in which the Hall and Mills families live.

It is considered possible that Simpson may request an early adjournment until whatever time tomorrow Mrs. Gibson is able to appear.

The reading yesterday of Mrs. Mills' letters to her lover revealed the choir singer to have been swept away by the minister, whose wife was older than himself.

"Darling Babykins" and "Wonder Man" were among the endearments of the choir singer toward the man whose "little finger she loved more than my husband's whole body."

Court Room, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 16.—(UP)—Presence of a group of members of the "Girls' Guild" of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, New Brunswick, N. J., in an anteroom today gave promise of the spectators at the Hall-Mills murder trial being treated to another recital of the gossip which went around New Brunswick involving the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills.

Court was delayed in opening today because Senator Alexander Simpson and Senator Howard Case, attorneys for the state and defense respectively, had been called to Trenton last night to attend a legislative caucus.

Court finally adjourned at 10:48 A. M.

Simpson announced that he had no quarrel with the court's decision not to send the jury to the scene, but would like to show photographs of the scene to the jury.

The court suggested a private view of the pictures to see if they should be shown and this was agreed to.

Mrs. Marie M. Lee, younger sister of Mrs. Mills, was the first witness.

Mrs. Lee said she attended social gatherings in Dr. Hall's church, but was not a communicant.

"Do you remember having been at a moving picture show when Eleanor was operating the machine?" asked Simpson.

"Yes," said the witness and went on to tell how Dr. Hall had come up

COAL STOPPAGE OF BRITAIN TO END THIS WEEK

PITTSBURGH MAN LOSES $200,000 UNCUT DIAMONDS

DAVID DAVIS TELLS HIS STORY TO POLICE OF ST.
PAUL

CLAIMS HE WAS FORCED FROM
BUS AND ROBBED BY
BANDITS

St. Paul, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Police of the Twin Cities joined today in a search for two bandits who robbed David Davis of Pittsburgh of $200,000 in uncut diamonds Monday night according to his report.

Davis said the bandits forced him from a St. Paul-Minneapolis bus into a waiting automobile, persuaded him to yield the jewelry, which was strapped next to his body in pouches and then threw him out of the moving automobile some distance away.

The merchant said he was a member of the firm of Barnett, Davis & Sons of Pittsburgh; came to Minneapolis Sunday and went to St. Paul Monday to interview a prospective customer.

The robbery occurred during the return trip to Minneapolis. Two men, Davis said, got into the bus behind him and finally one nudged a gun in his side.

Davis was forced to signal for the bus to stop near the St. Paul city limits. He said he tried to attract the attention of the driver without success. The automobile, he said, waited as though by prearrangement, with a driver at the wheel.

Police found a passenger in the same bus, who said Davis winked frantically as he and the two other men alighted from the bus but were unable to locate the driver.

and placed his right hand in Mrs. Mills' hand.

In 1919, the witness continued, Mrs. Mills told her she loved Dr. Hall and that the "handsome rector" was her "idea of a man."

"Did you ever see Dr. Hall kiss Mrs. Mills?" asked Simpson.

Mrs. Lee replied that she had. She said she entered her sister's home quietly one day and saw the rector kiss Mrs. Mills.

Mrs. Lee told of her sister's plans for a trip to Japan with the rector. Mrs. Mills spoke of the trip in the presence of her husband, the witness said.

Captain Harry W. Walsh, of the Hudson county police, was the next witness.

Walsh said he had gone to the home of Henry Stevens in LaVallette and had taken a statement in the presence of Sergeant Richard Burke and Mrs. Stevens.

The statement was offered in evidence and after several questions on cross examination, was read by Captain Walsh.

Stevens in his statement said he had not been more than a block from his home on the night of the murder.

He said he did not know at the time there was such a woman as Mrs. Mills and had never threatened the rector.

Stevens admitted he was a good shot with a shotgun but said he had not fired a revolver in 25 years.

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 16.—Mrs. Marie Demarest testified in the Hall-Mills murder case today that a detective at one time in the employ of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall had hinted she might receive $2,500 if she would change her story in the murder investigation.

Mrs. Demarest had testified last week that she had seen Henry Stevens, one of the defendants, in New Brunswick the day after the murder.

Stevens had maintained that he did not even know of the murders on that day and did not visit New Brunswick until two or three days after Dr. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills were killed.

ALSO WHERE AND HOW MUCH ARE FACTORS

MUCH DISSATISFACTION AND DIS-
AGREEMENT OVER LEGIS-LATION

UNEQUALLED BY ANY OTHER
LEGISLATIVE PROPOSAL OF
RECENT YEARS

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 16.—There will be a tax reduction soon—but how much, when and where are moot questions which have both the executive and legislative branches of the government puzzled.

Check up of developments at the White House, treasury, house and senate discloses an existing dissatisfaction and disagreement over the legislation, unequalled by any other legislative proposal of recent years.

In the first place the house ways and means committee which must initiate any action upon the administration proposal for a tax cut is in session upon the relatively unimportant matter of alien property claims, with no immediate intention of taking up the tax matter.

Some members of the committee say privately that leaders think it unwise to press the tax reduction question in its present condition, with no two members agreeing what should be done.

Leaders are doing some missionary work to win converts to some modified version of the treasury's proposal. When this plan develops sufficient strength work will be begun upon a bill or resolution, it is said.

In recent tax reductions none of this backstage maneuvering existed.

The administration proposal has now been changed thrice. First President Coolidge announced in favor of a 10 to 12 per cent rebate on taxes, paid this year. Next Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, declaring the president had been misunderstood, offered a plan of reducing payments to be made beginning March 15 by 12 1/2 per cent.

Late yesterday the secretary declared the reduction could be increased to 15 per cent in view of new estimates that the treasury surplus this year would reach $400,000,000.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Regardless of the manner in which the present treasury surplus is returned to taxpayers, President Coolidge regards it as a tax reduction, it was said on his behalf at the White House today.

Some confusion had arisen over the terms used in discussing the disposition of the surplus but the presidential spokesman explained his proposal as actual reduction.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 16.—(UP)—One man was killed and four others seriously injured today at De La Croix island, 40 miles south of New Orleans, in a gun battle between trappers and deputy sheriffs.

The trappers had been enjoined by the civil court here from trapping in that section and the deputies sought to enforce the court's order.

ANNUAL PRAISE SERVICE

Women's Missionary Society of Presbyterian Church to Hold Service

The annual praise service of the Women's Missionary society of the Presbyterian church will be held this Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Luken and the Misses Brown, 512 North 7th street.

There will be an opening service of song followed with the devotional led by Rev. Patterson.

Chiao Se Chang, or Chaucer Chang as he is known to most of his American friends, will then speak on his native land, China. The society feels honored in having one who knows facts and conditions of that great land in attendance. After Mr. Chang's talk an opportunity will be given to ask questions.

It seems peculiarly suggestive this year that November has been chosen as the month to stress prayer. Surely Thanksgiving has always meant praise and prayer—praise and prayer of gratitude for countless heavenly mercies, so the Missionary society is asking all its friends to join with them in this praise service Thursday evening.

Georgians Proud of Record of Augusta

Augusta, one of Georgia's health resort cities, founded nearly 200 years ago by James Oglethorpe, the philanthropist, was named by him for the then princess of Wales. While the city is known in the North and East chiefly as a health resort and for its splendid golf links, Georgians cherish its historical associations. It was from Charleston, S. C., to Hamburg, across the river from Augusta, that the first American-built locomotive, the "Best Friend," was operated 96 years ago, and in Augusta lived William Longstreet, who received a steamboat patent from his state in 1788, but was not able to operate his invention successfully until 20 years later, a year after Fulton's Clermont was navigating the Hudson. Augusta and Savannah each claims it was on a farm in its environs that Eli Whitney devised and set up the first cotton gin. Fifteen miles from Augusta is Silver Bluff, where Hernando de Soto camped in 1540, and Spanish chroniclers relate that it was with difficulty he induced his followers to leave the "pleasantest place" on American shores.—Ralph A. Graves, in the National Geographic Magazine.

Gay Colors Put Away

in Nature's Storeroom

One of the densest jungles on earth today lies along the Motago river in Guatemala. Should nature, by the process of the coal age, transform that jungle into a coal seam, it would be only a few inches thick. What a forest of tree life it must have been to produce the seams of coal which we mine today. One of the thickest on record is 66 feet. While nature was storing away the sun heat captured by the prehistoric jungles, nature also put away the color of that tropic world. Within the last 50 years chemists have discovered vats of every imaginable color concealed in gummy black coal tar. Modern styles for women's clothing quickly took possession of these color "miners," so our avenues are brilliant with the hues of luxuriant herbage which we may imagine beautified our earth, millions and millions of years ago.—National Geographic Society Magazine.

What a forest of tree life it must have been to produce the seams of coal which we mine today. One of the thickest on record is 66 feet. While nature was storing away the sun heat captured by the prehistoric jungles, nature also put away the color of that tropic world. Within the last 50 years chemists have discovered vats of every imaginable color concealed in gummy black coal tar. Modern styles for women's clothing quickly took possession of these color "miners," so our avenues are brilliant with the hues of luxuriant herbage which we may imagine beautified our earth, millions and millions of years ago.—National Geographic Society Magazine.

Contribution of $504.80 to meet the expenses involved by the City Park Board in the erection of the beautiful memorial entrance to Lum Park, in honor of Leon E. Lum, donor of the attractive park and play ground to the city, has been made by Dr. Clarence E. Lum, of Duluth, brother of Leon E. Lum, announcement was made today by Hugo Kaatz, member of the Park Board.

The donation is one which the Park Board are greatly appreciative of and provides an incentive for the Board to continue its improvement to make the park one of the outstanding beauty and recreation spots in the northwest.

Dr. Clarence E. Lum who generously donated the money for the entrance made the following announcement which is further appreciated by the Park Board:

"Next spring we will talk over in regard to putting in a cement walk between the main entrance and the side pillars, extending 15 or 20 feet on each side. I appreciate the kindness of the Park Board in handling this matter so satisfactorily."

Mrs. Bertha Lum, of Hollywood, California, sister-in-law of the late Leon E. Lum, and known by many Brainerd people has distinguished herself in Hollywood by the painting of costume portraits of leading film stars, including John Gilbert, Eleanor Boardman, and Roy D'Arcy.

The following clipping was taken from a Hollywood newspaper, and tells in brief of Mrs. Lum's art achievements:

"Another interesting factor has entered pictures with the beautiful costume portraits of Bertha Lum, internationally famous for her wood block prints. She is making a record for herself in Hollywood with portraits used for lobby display.

"All kinds of superlatives are uttered in connection with her costume portraits of John Gilbert, Eleanor Boardman and Roy D'Arcy, now on display at the Carthay Circle theatre where 'Bardelys the Magnificent' is showing. All are in the character of the roles they play in the production. The fidelity to the subjects, the treatment and brilliant coloring makes them an added attraction to the popular picture house. Mrs. Lum has recently come to Hollywood from three years spent in China.

MAYOR ISSUES PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, Miss Helen Caldwell is in our city, offering her professional services for the extinction of rats in our city,

It has been brought to our attention that for each human inhabitant there are two rats; That these rodents are causing thousands of dollars in economic loss annually; That they are a serious menace to the health of our community and it is only through a concerted effort that there is any hope of seriously eliminating these pests and curtailing the damages they are doing.

THEREFORE, I, as Mayor of the City of Brainerd, do hereby proclaim the week ending November 20th, 1926, as Anti-Rat Week and call on all citizens of our City to take active steps.

IRON, STEEL AND THE NATIONS

CARL ZAFFE gave a splendid address the other day at the Rotary club. In his comprehensive manner he sketched the various nations of the world, what their coal and iron resources are, their facilities for mining, marketing, manufacturing and using iron and steel products, and measured by such a rule he easily deciphered the first class powers, and the second raters in the world of nations, and laid low any threat of a "Yellow Peril."

Measured in hard terms of commerce, a first class power needs iron and coal to survive. Needless to deduce from the arguments advanced, the United States stands in a very fine position as regards raw resources, markets, ability to buy and use iron and steel products, to manufacture and transport them. In the last 25 years there has been an increasing use of iron and steel products. The control of necessary raw materials is the great aim of all nations.

Such control had a bearing on the World war. Nearly every one of the hundred nations of the globe has some iron ore in its territory. To make the most of such resources, the nation must also have an adequate supply of proper coal, transportation facilities, home market, finances, its people must be gifted by nature and study to carry on ferro-metallurgy or in other words, to have the necessary technique.

Mr. Zapffe, who is a geologist of high reputation and who is in charge of ore properties of the Northern Pacific railway company and kindred subsidiaries, has given the whole subject much thought and in his review of nations and their assets, first referred to Brazil. That South American country has large quantities of high grade ore, absolutely untouched. But there is no transportation. The fields lie 400 miles inland. There is little coal in Brazil, no coking coal. And Brazil is no first class power.

Chile is about the same as Brazil. There is no coal. There is some transportation. The Bethlehem Steel Co., of which Charles Schwab is the head, mines iron and takes it by aerial tramway over mountain peaks to tidewater.

Algeria and Morocco have some ore. Some is shipped to Europe and the east coast of America. Otherwise there is no activity.

Spain has several hundred iron ore deposits. With the exception of one large plant it has little of a steel industry, no wealth, no technique. Coal is imported.

Sweden has good ore, found north of the Arctic circle. It has made steel many years. Handicapped by the lack of coal, the industry has its limitations. Swedish ironmasters are very good, but the lack of coal and markets is serious.

Great Britain operates a large foreign market successfully. It has coal and secures a considerable iron ore supply.

France and Germany in their trade war over iron and coal occupied some time of the speaker. Russia has some ore, but not enough.

Japan and China have limited supplies of iron ore. Mineral resources of these two powers have been definitely established. Japan uses 10 pounds of steel per capita, the United States 800 pounds. China has two modern blast furnaces and six or seven times as much ore as Japan. The Philippines have some ore.

And then comes our own United States. We have the greatest reserve of ore in the world, high and low qualities. We have water and rail transportation. Enormous wealth is tied up in our steel industry. We have a home market. More steel is used per capital than by any other nation. We produce 60 per cent of the steel manufactured.

That establishes the supremacy of the United States in iron and steel and where the other first class powers stand. It leaves Japan and China far to the rear and thus removes all threat of any Oriental peril, said Mr. Zapffe as he summed up his talk.

THE Paving Celebration committee concluded last night to continue the publicity accorded the cement paving which now links Brainerd with the Twin Cities and on beyond almost to the Iowa line, making a hard surfaced road of 214 miles, the longest highway of its kind in the state of Minnesota.

Right now, when winter is setting in, the man of the midwest and his family are wont to spend some time at home and to the accompaniment of a blazing hearth fire or a sizzling steam pipe, they are laying plans as to where to spend the summer vacation. With 214 miles of all the year around cement paving greeting them in Minnesota, it will in many instances prove the deciding factor to attract their car. Automobiles go in flocks where the good roads offer secure footing.

Another thing that can be stimulated by proper publicity is the fact that cement paving means all the year around highway travel. Instead of anxiously scanning a weekly highway bulletin to see if that gravel road or that dirt road is fair or good or passable, a cement road means an open road.

The state highway department has given the assurance that trunk highways will be kept open, if the crews have to work day and night to do it.

Just as Florida in the past has trained its publicity guns on the North and Middlewest in the winter season so as to gain tourist trade, so Brainerd is besieging the United States to notice our cement highway of 214 miles, open the year around. It will do much to stimulate fall and winter driving, as well as to get the annual summer tourist begonia.

And literature sent out mentions Crow Wing county, and Central Minnesota. For among the visitors are people who wish to invest, people who may settle in our towns or countryside, people who may build lake homes and spend their whole summers with us.

There is no closed season for advertising. Advertising should be done constantly. The man or community never talked about is dead, buried in a cemetery. No one ever buys a ticket to a dead town or community. People speak of towns they have heard about or have read about. You never ask the ticket agent: "Gimme a ticket to Lonesomeville."

WELL, Queen Marie of Rumania has gained a good perspective of the United States. She has become aware of the immensity of this nation, its resources and its people. She will return home with a broader vision and clearer understanding of what America means. We hope all the rulers of Europe, Asia and Africa as well as our own South America will take a vacation and journey around our country.

BRAINERD

25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

Nov. 15, 1901

General Manager W. H. Gemmell went North yesterday afternoon in his private car. He was accompanied by George Nevers, clerk in the general offices of the M. and N. in this city.

Mrs. G. F. Mitchell gave a tea party last evening to eight or ten of her neighbors.

Another real estate transfer of importance is chronicled this morning. Erick Kronberg has sold his farm of 240 acres just south of the city to M. K. Swartz, the purchase price being $6,150. The farm is one of the best in the county and there are some extensive improvements thereon. Mr. Swartz will have his stock moved to this farm and will go into the stock raising business more extensively than ever. In return Mr. Swartz has sold to Kronberg a house and new lots on the corner of Fourth and Grove streets north. Mr. Kronberg expects soon to make some extensive improvements on this property.

Brainerd at last rejoices in the dignity of free mail delivery within its corporate limits. The city has been divided into three districts each supplied by a carrier. There will be two deliveries every day except Sundays and 22 mail boxes will be put up for the accommodation of patrons. We congratulate our neighbors upon this advance step toward a higher plane of civilization, and hope that at no very distant date Park Rapids and similar towns throughout this section will rejoice in like conveniences. We are also very much interested in seeing the rural free delivery which has become so widespread in more populous states become a factor as we believe it would in the development of our farming districts. A few more years of rapid settling up of our wild lands and these modern facilities will not seem so far off as they do now. Hubbard County Enterprise.

WICKHICAN CAMP NOTES

By the late N. H. Ingersoll
This is the way the game started. The location of the camp was made Sept. 22, 1906, the party on that day consisting of C. H. Paine, N. H. Ingersoll, H. McGinn, R. D. Holden, Jim Smith and Jeff Saunders, the two latter being guests, and on Sunday, Sept. 23, 1906, the foundation and corner stone laying took place without accident and with proper ceremonies. On Sunday night lumber was hauled in its grip, and he went into dry dock until Tuesday. The frame of the shack was raised on Monday and it was enclosed on Tuesday. Smith and Ingersoll went to Brainerd on Tuesday, Saunders and McGinn Wednesday. Paine and Holden stayed until Saturday and finished the preliminary work.

On Oct. 22, the promoters, Paine, McGinn, Ingersoll and Holden landed at the old camp, and on the morning of the 23rd, at 8 a. m. started with the pumpkin seed fleet, preceded by the Joe Wood, for the new camp, which was to be known in the future as The Wickhican, and it was formally dedicated by the bunch occupying the camp that night. McGinn and Ingersoll walked into Mildred Oct. 27. It snowed on October 29th, and Paine went into Brainerd that day.

F. G. Hall, C. C. Kyle and Dr. Frederick came into camp Saturday Oct. 27, staying until Tuesday a. m. The team failed to come and they hiked to Mildred. Hall went home Monday.

Nov. 2, 1906—Came in on Ingersoll, Paine and Holden, getting here at 6:30 p. m. Had supper. Now ready for the penny ante game. C. A. Allbright.

Nov. 7th—Judge Allbright left for home after a hearty breakfast, leaving the game three handed, which resulted as follows:

Paine won 31 cents.
Holden lost 30 cents.
Ingersoll lost 1 cent.

On account of his heavy losses Bob got cold feet and broke up the game at 9 p. m.

Nov. 9—This was bear day, a cub being captured on the peninsula east of Coon Point. Holden managed to walk into camp, but that was all. Frank Hall and Chas Hoffman arrived at 6:30.

Nov. 10—The new dock was built and dedicated, followed by a duck and waboose banquet.

Nov. 11—The Lord be praised the net was laid across the bosom of Lake Hattie, and we expect to catch the white fish.

Nov. 12—Ingersoll walked into Mildred and brought out a load of groceries. Holden, Paine, Hall and Hoffman are going to the net in Lake Hattie, which was raised for the first time. Six white fish and seven of other varieties were caught. White fish baked and potato cakes were served for supper.

Nov. 13—Frank Hall and Chas. Hoffman left for home after being from the 9th to the 13th in camp. They officiated at the first pulling of the net and as a trophy of the hunt took home with them the cub bear, packing it in to Mildred, and were as proud as two peacocks. Before this visit they were somewhat unfamiliar with wild animals and their habits, but in the future it is suspected they will be well up on bear.

We are all in affluter over the bull's (Holden) birthday which is to be pulled off tomorrow. The candles have been ordered for the cake, which will be served with the evening meal, and it is proposed to hold a wake in the evening. It is currently reported he will not live to see another 41st birthday, although his constitution is still strong and he has a healthy appearance and a fair appetite—and Mr. McGinn didn't come.

Nov. 14—The sun shone bright and auspiciously on the morning of the bull's birthday, but during the night the thermometer registered pretty cold weather, and water froze over in the shanty. Gold mines and kindred subjects were discussed during the breakfast, resulting in a bet offered by Peleg (Paine) that the American Gold Mining and Milling Co. would never pay a cent of dividends, the amount offered being $10 to $5. The bull, it being his birthday and he was feeling rather cocky, took the bet, and it is here recorded for future reference. It might be added that the 41er owned stock in this mine.

One of these rare birds, a woodcock, was sighted by the bull at 10:55 but he failed to score.

The fleet failed to get farther than the foot of the rapids on account of anchor ice when the boats were beached and the party made the trip overland to August's for the purpose of lifting the net. Swampers went ahead of the hunters and at the end of the first two miles the bull was left hot on a rabbit trail and was picked up by the relief party on their return. The bay was found frozen over and the net was under an inch and a half of ice. A banquet was spread in the evening in honor of the bull's birthday, and the birthday cake surpassed anything ever seen on 24 mile creek in beauty and symmetry. Several notches were cut in the stick, and the usual profit and loss announcement was dispensed with. The only mean thing that occurred was when an advantage was taken of the bull on his birthday by Peleg who bet him on a sure thing that McGinn would not come. The bull banked on Mac's word—but McGinn did not come. The bet was paid however, and the birthday party ended.

Nov. 15—The decoy ducks were cut out of the ice, the rice beds having been frozen to the depths of two inches. In the afternoon Holden walked to the farmers and engaged him to take us out Monday morning Nov. 18th, that being the day decided on to break camp. The peculiarity of the trip was that it took him a little better than two hours to make the return when 20 minutes is the limit—and McGinn did not come, thus causing a loss of money in bets of those who had confidence in his arrival. The bull lost 50 cents on a thermometer bet.

Nov. 16—The net was pulled through the ice of Lake Hattie, the ice being two inches thick and of sufficient strength to hold the party. Six whitefish and 16 of other varieties were in the net. The official survey of the land was made in the afternoon. The post at the southwest corner was driven in the logging road, the northeast corner being on the edge of the ravine. McGinn came.

Nov. 17—Fine day—the thermometer stood at 73 at noon. Paine sighted two deer while making a sneak on two ducks. Duck supper for four—one blue bill each—followed an afternoon tramp through the woods.

Nov. 18—All day in the woods. Nothing doing except that McGinn sighted a wild cat and by dextrous shooting turned him on his back, but he failed to kill the critter. The cat was a large one, big as a good sized dog, and made a round track in the snow. It is probably just as well that he did not kill the animal as he would have been unable to have brought him into camp on account of his size.

Nov. 19—McGinn and Ingersoll visited the scene of the wild cat fracas yesterday, and the facts as stated by McGinn were substantiated. Paine took a bath, shaved and made other preparations for the return to civilization on the morrow.

IRON, STEEL AND THE NATIONS

CARL ZAPFFE gave a splendid address the other day at the Rotary club. In his comprehensive manner he sketched the various nations of the world, what their coal and iron resources are, their facilities for mining, marketing, manufacturing and using iron and steel products, and measured by such a rule he easily deciphered the first class powers, and the second raters in the world of nations, and laid low any threat of a "Yellow Peril."

Measured in hard terms of commerce, a first class power needs iron and coal to survive. Needless to deduce from the arguments advanced, the United States stands in a very fine position as regards raw resources, markets, ability to buy and use iron and steel products, to manufacture and transport them. In the last 25 years there has been an increasing use of iron and steel products. The control of necessary raw materials is the great aim of all nations.

Such control had a bearing on the World war. Nearly every one of the hundred nations of the globe has some iron ore in its territory. To make the most of such resources, the nation must also have an adequate supply of proper coal, transportation facilities, home market, finances, its people must be gifted by nature and study to carry on ferro-metallurgy or in other words, to have the necessary technique.

Mr. Zapffe, who is a geologist of high reputation and who is in charge of ore properties of the Northern Pacific railway company and kindred subsidiaries, has given the whole subject much thought and in his review of nations and their assets, first referred to Brazil. That South American country has large quantities of high grade ore, absolutely untouched. But there is no transportation. The fields lie 400 miles inland. There is little coal in Brazil, no coking coal. And Brazil is no first class power.

Chile is about the same as Brazil. There is no coal. There is some transportation. The Bethlehem Steel Co., of which Charles Schwab is the head, mines iron and takes it by aerial tramway over mountain peaks to tidewater.

Algeria and Morocco have some ore. Some is shipped to Europe and the east coast of America. Otherwise there is no activity.

Spain has several hundred iron ore deposits. With the exception of one large plant it has little of a steel industry, no wealth, no technique. Coal is imported.

Sweden has good ore, found north of the Arctic circle. It has made steel many years. Handicapped by the lack of coal, the industry has its limitations. Swedish ironmasters are very good, but the lack of coal and markets is serious.

Great Britain operates a large foreign market successfully. It has coal and secures a considerable iron ore supply.

France and Germany in their trade war over iron and coal occupied some time of the speaker. Russia has some ore, but not enough.

Japan and China have limited supplies of iron ore. Mineral resources of these two powers have been definitely established. Japan uses 10 pounds of steel per capita, the United States 800 pounds. China has two modern blast furnaces and six or seven times as much ore as Japan. The Philippines have some ore. And then comes our own United States. We have the greatest reserve of ore in the world, high and low qualities. We have water and rail transportation. Enormous wealth is tied up in our steel industry. We have a home market. More steel is used per capital than by any other nation. We produce 60 per cent of the steel manufactured.

That establishes the supremacy of the United States in iron and steel and where the other first class powers stand. It leaves Japan and China far to the rear and thus removes all threat of any Oriental peril, said Mr. Zapffe as he summed up his talk.

THE Paving Celebration committee concluded last night to continue the publicity accorded the cement paving which now links Brainerd with the Twin Cities and on beyond almost to the Iowa line, making a hard surfaced road of 214 miles, the longest highway of its kind in the state of Minnesota.

Right now, when winter is setting in, the man of the midwest and his family are wont to spend some time at home and to the accompaniment of a blazing hearth fire or a sizzling steam pipe, they are laying plans as to where to spend the summer vacation. With 214 miles of all the year around cement paving greeting them in Minnesota, it will in many instances prove the deciding factor to attract their car. Automobiles go in flocks where the good roads offer secure footing.

Another thing that can be stimulated by proper publicity is the fact that cement paving means all the year around highway travel. Instead of anxiously scanning a weekly highway bulletin to see if that gravel road or that dirt road is fair or good or passable, a cement road means an open road.

The state highway department has given the assurance that trunk highways will be kept open, if the crews have to work day and night to do it.

Just as Florida in the past has trained its publicity guns on the North and Midwest in the winter season so as to gain tourist trade, so Brainerd is besieging the United States to notice our cement highway of 214 miles, open the year around. It will do much to stimulate fall and winter driving, as well as to get the annual summer tourist hegeira.

And literature sent out mentions Crow Wing county, and Central Minnesota. For among the visitors are people who wish to invest, people who may settle in our towns or countryside, people who may build lake homes and spend their whole summers with us.

There is no closed season for advertising. Advertising should be done constantly. The man or community never talked about is dead, buried in a cemetery. No one ever buys a ticket to a dead town or community. People speak of towns they have heard about or have read about. You never ask the ticket agent: "Gimme a ticket to Lonesomeville."

WELL, Queen Marie of Rumania has gained a good perspective of the United States. She has become aware of the immensity of this nation, its resources and its people. She will return home with a broader vision and clearer understanding of what America means. We hope all the rulers of Europe, Asia and Africa as well as our own South America will take a vacation and journey around our country.

BRAINERD

25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

Nov. 15, 1901

General Manager W. H. Gemmell went North yesterday afternoon in his private car. He was accompanied by George Nevers, clerk in the general offices of the M. and N. in this city.

Mrs. G. F. Mitchell gave a tea party last evening to eight or ten of her neighbors.

Another real estate transfer of importance is chronicled this morning. Erick Kronberg has sold his farm of 240 acres just south of the city to M. K. Swartz, the purchase price being $6,150. The farm is one of the best in the county and there are some extensive improvements thereon. Mr. Swartz will have his stock moved to this farm and will go into the stock raising business more extensively than ever. In return Mr. Swartz has sold to Kronberg a house and new lots on the corner of Fourth and Grove streets north. Mr. Kronberg expects soon to make some extensive improvements on this property.

Brainerd at last rejoices in the dignity of free mail delivery within its corporation limits. The city has been divided into three districts each supplied by a carrier. There will be two deliveries every day except Sundays and 22 mail boxes will be put up for the accommodation of patrons. We congratulate our neighbors upon this advance step toward a higher plane of civilization, and hope that at no very distant date Park Rapids and similar towns throughout this section will rejoice in like conveniences. We are also very much interested in seeing the rural free delivery which has become so widespread in more populous states become a factor as we believe it would in the development of our farming districts. A few more years of rapid settling up of our wild lands and these modern facilities will not seem so far off as they do now. Hubbard County Enterprise.

WICKHICAN CAMP NOTES

By the late N. H. Ingersoll
This is the way the game started. The location of the camp was made Sept. 22, 1906, the party on that day consisting of C. H. Paine, N. H. Ingersoll, H. McGinn, R. D. Holden, Jim Smith and Jeff Saunders, the two latter being guests, and on Sunday, Sept. 23, 1906, the foundation and corner stone laying took place without accident and with proper ceremonies. On Sunday night lumber barge had Ingersoll in its grip, and he went into dry dock until Tuesday. The frame of the shack was raised on Monday and it was enclosed on Tuesday. Smith and Ingersoll went to Brainerd on Tuesday, Saunders and McGinn Wednesday. Paine and Holden stayed until Saturday and finished the preliminary work.

On Oct. 22, the promoters, Paine, McGinn, Ingersoll and Holden landed at the old camp, and on the morning of the 23rd, at 8 a. m. started with the pumpkin seed fleet, preceded by the Joe Wood, for the new camp, which was to be known in the future as The Wickhican, and it was formally dedicated by the bunch occupying the camp that night. McGinn and Ingersoll walked into Mildred Oct. 27. It snowed on October 29th, and Paine went into Brainerd that day.

F. G. Hall, C. C. Kyle and Dr. Frederick came into camp Saturday Oct. 27, staying until Tuesday a. m. The team failed to come and they hiked to Mildred. Hall went home Monday.

Nov. 2, 1906—Came in on Ingersoll, Paine and Holden, getting here at 6:30 p. m. Had supper. Now ready for the penny ante game. C. A. Albright.

Nov. 7th—Judge Albright left for home after a hearty breakfast, leaving the game three handed, which resulted as follows:

Paine won 31 cents.
Holden lost 30 cents.
Ingersoll lost 1 cent.

On account of his heavy losses Bob got cold feet and broke up the game at 9 p. m.

Nov. 9—This was bear day, a cub being captured on the peninsula east of Coon Point. Holden managed to walk into camp, but that was all. Frank Hall and Chas Hoffman arrived at 6:30.

Nov. 10—The new dock was built and dedicated, followed by a duck and waboose banquet.

Nov. 11—The Lord be praised the net was laid across the bosom of Lake Hattie, and we expect to catch the white fish.

Nov. 12—Ingersoll walked into Mildred and brought out a load of groceries. Holden, Paine, Hall and Hoffman are going to the net in Lake Hattie, which was raised for the first time. Six white fish and seven of other varieties were caught. White fish baked and potato pancakes were served for supper.

Nov. 13—Frank Hall and Chas. Hoffman left for home after being from the 9th to the 13th in camp. They officiated at the first pulling of the net and as a trophy of the hunt took home with them the cub bear, packing it in to Mildred, and were as proud as two peacocks. Before this visit they were somewhat unfamiliar with wild animals and their habits, but in the future it is suspected they will be well up on bear.

We are all in a flutter over the bull's (Holden) birthday which is to be pulled off tomorrow. The candles have been ordered for the cake, which will be served with the evening meal, and it is proposed to hold a wake in the evening. It is currently reported he will not live to see another 41st birthday, although his constitution is still strong and he has a healthy appearance and a fair appetite—and Mr. McGinn didn't come.

Nov. 14—The sun shone bright and auspiciously on the morning of the bull's birthday, but during the night the thermometer registered pretty cold weather, and water froze over in the shanty. Gold mines and kindred subjects were discussed during the breakfast, resulting in a bet offered by Peleg (Paine) that the American Gold Mining and Milling Co. would never pay a cent of dividends, the amount offered being $10 to $5. The bull, it being his birthday and he was feeling rather cocky, took the bet, and it is here recorded for future reference. It might be added that the 41er owned stock in this mine.

One of those rare birds, a woodcock, was sighted by the bull at 10:55 but he failed to score.

The fleet failed to get farther than the foot of the rapids on account of anchor ice when the boats were beached and the party made the trip overland to August's for the purpose of lifting the net. Swampers went ahead of the hunters and at the end of the first two miles the bull was left hot on a rabbit trail and was picked up by the relief party on their return. The bay was found frozen over and the net was under an inch and a half of ice. A banquet was spread in the evening in honor of the bull's birthday, and the birthday cake surpassed anything ever seen on 24 mile creek in beauty and symmetry. Several notches were cut in the stick, and the usual profit and loss announcement was dispensed with. The only mean thing that occurred was when an advantage was taken of the bull on his birthday by Peleg who bet him on a sure thing that McGinn would not come. The bull banked on Mac's word—but McGinn did not come. The bet was paid however, and the birthday party ended.

Nov. 15—The decoy ducks were cut out of the ice, the rice beds having been frozen to the depths of two inches. In the afternoon Holden walked to the farmers and engaged him to take us out Monday morning Nov. 18th, that being the day decided on to break camp. The peculiarity of the trip was that it took him a little better than two hours to make the return when 20 minutes is the limit—and McGinn did not come, thus causing a loss of money in bets of those who had confidence in his arrival. The bull lost 50 cents on a thermometer bet.

Nov. 16—The net was pulled through the ice of Lake Hattie, the ice being two inches thick and of sufficient strength to hold the party. Six whitefish and 16 of other varieties were in the net. The official survey of the land was made in the afternoon. The post at the southwest corner was driven in the logging road, the northeast corner being on the edge of the ravine. McGinn came.

Nov. 17—Fine day—the thermometer stood at 73 at noon. Paine sighted two deer while making a sneak on two ducks. Duck supper for four—one blue bill each—followed an afternoon tramp through the woods.

Nov. 18—All day in the woods. Nothing doing except that McGinn sighted a wild cat and by dextrous shooting turned him on his back, but he failed to kill the critter. The cat was a large one, big as a good sized dog, and made a round track in the snow. It is probably just as well that he did not kill the animal as he would have been unable to have brought him into camp on account of his size.

Nov. 19—McGinn and Ingersoll visited the scene of the wild cat fracas yesterday, and the facts as stated by McGinn were substantiated. Paine took a bath, shaved and made other preparations for the return to civilization on the morrow.

REVOLUTIONISTS RE-ARREST FORMER FRENCH NOBLEMAN

DENOUNCED BY
FATHER-IN-LAWCHARLES DARNAY HELD AT CON-
CIERGERIE FOR ANOTHER
TRIAL

Paris, Sept. 17.—Charles Darnay, popular Frenchman, who gave up his title and property in France, has been rearrested by St. Antoine, according to Monsieur DeFarge.

Charles was arrested in London a few years ago on the charge of treason, in which Dr. Manette and his daughter, Lucy, acted as witnesses during the trial and were instrumental in getting the release of Charles. Shortly after the trial, Lucy and Charles were married.

A document was found in a cell during the storming of the Bastille, stating why the doctor had been imprisoned there for eighteen years. He had made a vow against the Marquis family as they were the ones who imprisoned him. As Charles is one of that family, the St. Antoine mob have taken the situation into their hands and have arrested him. There is small hope for his release.

Mode of Travel

The first lap of the journey to the continent is very slow and hazardous. The road to Dover is very rough and slow and infested with many bandits. Many of our most important citizens find it necessary to travel to France or other countries on the continent. Some who start out to places on the continent never arrive, as their money is some times stolen or else more determined robbers may become murderers.

This part of the journey is ours. Crossing the channel is quite safe, and French travel, in normal times, is much above our own. If a number of London citizens were in the Dover mail coach, each would greatly suspect the other even though they be taxpayers of the same city. Cannot the citizens of London unite and build a road on which travel will not be suicide? Cannot London replace the old coaches with new and brighter ones and the worn-out horses with a spirited team? Cannot the road be given a better surface so that the ride will be more comfortable and, lastly, cannot the money of the taxpayers of London be used in protecting passengers on this coach?

ST. ANTOINE LEADER
IS FOUND DEAD

Paris, Sept. 15.—Madame Defarge, wife of Monsieur Defarge, of St. Antoine, was found dead this morning, in the apartment in St. Germain Quarter, formerly occupied by Dr. Manette and his daughter, Mrs. Charles Darnay, during their stay in Paris. It is understood that Madame Defarge had come to Dr. Manette's apartment to denounce the doctor, his daughter, and granddaughter. Madame Defarge did not find those whom she was seeking, because they had left for England, but she met Miss Pross, Mrs. Darnay's companion. After a terrific struggle between the two women, Madame Defarge was accidentally shot by a loaded revolver which she had concealed in her bosom. The effect of the shot was so great on Miss Pross that the doctors fear that she will not recover her sense of hearing.

POPULAR FRENCH NOBLE
GIVES UP TITLE

Paris, May 2.—Charles, former French nobleman, has given up his title, including the name, Evremonde and departed for England. His marriage to Miss Lucy Manette took place shortly after his arrival in England. Mr. Darnay is at present holding the position as instructor of French in London.

It seems that Mr. Charles Evremonde, now Darnay, was in strong sympathy with the oppressed class of people in Paris and that he felt it an injustice to them to demand their time and labor in retaining the nobility. Rather than continue to live under those circumstances, he had given up all individual rights as a noble and departed for England to be in time recognized as an English citizen.

Paris, Sept. 15.—The tennis fans were given an unexpected title last Saturday afternoon, not on the program. Bertha Pross defeated Madame De Farge forty to thirty, taking over the tennis crown. The winner, Miss Pross, has won the right to combat the American champion, Betsy Ross.

De Farge's Revolutionists Defeat
Marquis' Militia

Paris, Sept. 17.—Jacques, the Paris blonde, was almost wholly responsible for the timely defeat of the Marquis' Militia by the De Farge's Revolutionists yesterday afternoon. This victory put the De Fargers in running for the Big Two Conference championship.

Jacques took the ball from his own one yard line around end to the opposing two yard line where Fonlon, the Calais pile driver put it over for a touchdown. Jacques then kicked goal for the other point.

The Paris blue-coats were put to rout when they endeavored to put down the De Farge rooters.

The Lorry Stadium, by the River Seine, was the scene of the conflict.

BATTLE FOR WORLD TITLE

Jerry Cruncher Defeats John Barsad
in a Fifteen Round
Battle

Paris, Sept. 18.—At 2:30 p. m. today in the Paris theatre on Second street 15,000 people witnessed a battle in which Jerry Cruncher defeated John Barsad, heavyweight champion, in a fifteen round battle. The fight lasted 1 hour and 10 minutes.

The two opponents came together with a clash in the first round which resulted in the gallant Jerry going through the ropes only to come back with more force than ever. The fourth round soon came, Jerry was going good. In the fifth round John Barsad gave a left hook to Jerry's jaw which flattened him out for 3 seconds. In the eighth round Mr. Barsad was pretty well beaten up, but he fought gallantly till the middle of the fifteenth round in which Jerry delivered an uppercut to Barsad's chin which flattened him out for two hours. Jerry was given many cheers and then he retired.

Tellson's Bank

Tellson's bank is near Temple Bar, which is an ancient gateway. It was an old-fashioned place even in the year of 1792. It is very small, very dark, and very ugly, but the partners are proud of its dinginess, darkness and ugliness. Tellson's, they say, want no light. Anyone of these partners would disinherit his son if he suggested rebuilding Tellson's.

After bursting open a door, which was a weak rattle in its threat, you fall into Tellson's down two steps and come to your senses in a miserable little shop with two little counters. Your money comes out of or goes into wormy old wooden drawers and your bank notes have a musty odor.

If young men are employed at Tellson's London House, the manager aids them somewhere until they are old. The oldest of men carry on all the business gravely.

Outside Tellson's is an odd jobman, porter and messenger who never leaves his post unless on an errand and in the case his son takes his place. His name is Jerry Cruncher.

MANETTE-DARNEY NUPTIALS

Wedding Takes Place at 8 A. M. on Wednesday at the Salisbury
Cathedral

London, June 15.—Feathery white chrysanthemums, massed against a background of cybotium ferns and white tapers in candelabra adorned the chancel of the Salisbury Cathedral for the marriage at 8 A. M. Wednesday of Miss Lucy Manette, 709 Soho Square, London, and Charles Darnay, 204 Linden Lane, London, England.

Reverend Frederick D. Butler, rector, performed the ceremony.

William Cecil, organist, and Thomas Howard, soloist of the London Symphony orchestra, played a program of nuptial music during and preceding the ceremony.

Mr. Jarvis Lorry of London was Mr. Darnay's best man.

Mary Wainwright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wainwright, was the bride's only attendant.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Doctor Manette, 709 Soho Square, London. The guests were received by Mr. Jarvis Lorry, Sydney Carton and Miss Pross, and assisting about the rooms were a group of the bride's friends.

Pink and white was the color note in decorations, chrysanthemums and roses being employed.

After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Darnay will be at home in London, 709 Soho Square.

For traveling Mrs. Darnay wore a dark blue dress with hat to match.

Social circles of the city will be represented at the reception Thursday, at the home of Miss Pross in London, when Miss Pross and friends will formally welcome Miss Lucy Manette. A dinner will be held, followed by a reception. The guests present will be Henry Vane, Anne Dewberry, Mary Gardner, Mrs. John Gladstone, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peel and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Weiser.

Entertain for Miss Manette

Madame and Monsieur DeFarge of St. Antoine entertained at a dinner Saturday evening for Miss Lucy Manette whose marriage is to be soon celebrated. Twelve guests were present and the decorations were reasonable flowers and candles.

London, England.—Mrs. Jerry Cruncher entertained at luncheon Friday for Mrs. Charles Darnay, a June bride. Many friends were present and a delightful luncheon was prepared.

Father of the little child who was cruelly run over by the carriage of Marquis late yesterday afternoon. The country is being searched for he murderer but without results. The immediate relative, Charles Evremonde, has not been heard from for about twenty years.

THE DESTRUCTION OF THIS PRISON BRINGS POLITICAL FREEDOM

Paris, July 15.—The Bastille, the great state prison, was attacked yesterday. In it had been confined political offenders and victims of "letters of seal." It was a symbol of the "Old Regime" and an object of detestation to the liberals. It has been used as an arsenal, and the rebels went to it at first only to demand arms. Refused admission and fired upon, the Revolutionists made a frantic attack. Then the hangers-on of the attacking force massacred the garrison and paraded their heads on pikes through the streets.

Local members who were instruments in attacking the Bastille were Monsieur and Madame DeFarge, leaders of the St. Antoine district of Paris. Their followers worked like manful soldiers for two fierce hours. Deep ditches, single drawbridges, massive stone walls and eight great towers were ruthlessly destroyed. Monsieur DeFarge was constantly calling to the Jacques to work and destroy everything in their way. There was much shrieking and yelling amid the great crashes and banks. Women, like men, fought like fierce tigers. Torches blazed and knives flashed as they tore down the towers and bridges. Many people were killed. The massacre was terrible. The people were crazed with the lust of killing and did all they could within their power to create the destruction of everything.

WEATHER REPORTS

Total Eclipse of the Sun

Those who like to star gaze will have a fine opportunity to see a total eclipse of the sun, Sunday forenoon, Professor E. Clipse announced.

By using a piece of colored glass, one may look directly at the sun and see the moon pass directly in front of the sun, thus shutting the sunlight for about two minutes.

Tornado in Southern France

A tornado swept across the southern part of France late yesterday afternoon.

About a million francs worth of property was destroyed; also many grape vineyards which will cause a shortage of wine this year. About five hundred people were made homeless and aid from neighboring villages have sent food and clothing to the village of Avignon which was nearly destroyed.

Today—Stormy in general; but fair in Southern portion.

Tomorrow—Fairer in central and showers in North and West.

PRESENT SCHOOL
SITE REJECTED

Returns from the recent ballot on the subject of using the present school site for the new school showed the general opinion decidedly against it. The majority of the people believe the present site to be inadequate in regard to location and proximity to grounds for an athletic field. Next to centralness of locality the possibility of a suitable athletic field is considered one of the prime factors in its selection. As everyone believes it is time for a new high school it is hoped that the site next selected by the School Board will meet all of the necessary requirements and in the near future a new, modern school will be erected.

The Grindstone

In Paris, between Tellson's and LaFard, is this grindstone. It is large and has two handles. These handles go round at a furious rate, very night. Every night people come here to sharpen their swords. 'Tis even the women show great interest in this instrument. The sun was red on the courtyard this morning, but the grindstone stands alone in the calm morning air with a red upon it the sun had never given and would never take away.

SYDNEY CARTON
SACRIFICES LIFECHARLES DARNAY IS THE INNO-
CENT CAUSE OF RASH
DEED

Sydney Carton rode in the largest tumbrel to the guillotine here yesterday in the place of Charles Evremonde, called Darnay. The strong resemblance of the two parties enabled this to take place. He saved the life of a friend and ex-noble, who was falsely condemned to die.

Police believe that Carton was admitted to the prison by a spy who secretly helped him drug Evremonde and change clothes. As the two bear strong resemblance to each other, it is believed that the noble was taken from the country by his own family without their knowledge of his being the Evremonde, but thought he was Sydney Carton. Evidence shows that the relatives of Charles had been instructed by Carton to wait for him and had gone to England believing that it was Carton that accompanied them.

If Carton had an accomplice in his act of heroism, he was all the more heroic to go to his death under the gaze of the blood-thirsty mob without betraying the spy that admitted him to the prison.

Monsieur and Madame DeFarge were very much disappointed when they heard this news as they were intent upon sending the whole Evremonde family to their death. These two individuals were responsible for the prosecution of Charles Evremonde as they had to do with the document which Dr. Manette wrote in his prison cell in the Bastille denouncing the entire Evremonde family, including this Charles, for imprisoning him.

Any relatives of the late Sydney Carton are asked to report to the police department for instructions as to his burial.

CHATEAU OF THE MARQUIS BURNED

Monsieur, the Marquis' Chateau, was burned to the ground early this morning. The "fire bugs" are said to be a secret society of the revolutionists. Luckily, all the attendants of the large building escaped without being harmed, but all their belongings and the valuables of the house were completely destroyed.

The Tribune reporters have it that it was done for revenge.

View 17-Year Locust

The so-called "seventeen-year" locust is not a special kind of locust at all, but the common variety which changes its form under certain conditions. The fact has been discovered by a scientist at work in Egypt, where the locust pest has been a problem for years.

REVOLUTIONISTS RE-ARREST FORMER FRENCH NOBLEMAN

DENOUNCED BY
FATHER-IN-LAWCHARLES DARNAY HELD AT CON-
CIERGE FOR ANOTHER
TRIAL

Paris, Sept. 17.—Charles Darnay, popular Frenchman, who gave up his title and property in France, has been rearrested by St. Antoine, according to Monsieur DeFarge.

Charles was arrested in London a few years ago on the charge of treason, in which Dr. Manette and his daughter, Lucy, acted as witnesses during the trial and were instrumental in getting the release of Charles. Shortly after the trial, Lucy and Charles were married.

A document was found in a cell during the storming of the Bastille, stating why the doctor had been imprisoned there for eighteen years. He had made a vow against the Marquis family as they were the ones who imprisoned him. As Charles is one of that family, the St. Antoine mob have taken the situation into their hands and have arrested him. There is small hope for his release.

Mode of Travel

The first lap of the journey to the continent is very slow and hazardous. The road to Dover is very rough and slow and infested with many bandits. Many of our most important citizens find it necessary to travel to France or other countries on the continent. Some who start out to places on the continent never arrived, as their money is some times stolen or else more determined robbers may become murderers.

This part of the journey is ours. Crossing the channel is quite safe, and French travel, in normal times, is much above our own. If a number of London citizens were in the Dover mail coach, each would greatly suspect the other even though they be taxpayers of the same city. Cannot the citizens of London unite and build a road on which travel will not be suicide? Cannot London replace the old coaches with new and brighter ones and the worn-out horses with a spirited team? Cannot the road be given a better surface so that the ride will be more comfortable and, lastly, cannot the money of the taxpayers of London be used in protecting passengers on this coach?

ST. ANTOINE LEADER
IS FOUND DEAD

Paris, Sept. 15.—Madame Defarge, wife of Monsieur Defarge, of St. Antoine, was found dead this morning, in the apartment in St. Germain Quarter, formerly occupied by Dr. Manette and his daughter, Mrs. Charles Darnay, during their stay in Paris. It is understood that Madame Defarge had come to Dr. Manette's apartment to denounce the doctor, his daughter, and granddaughter. Madame Defarge did not find those whom she was seeking, because they had left for England, but she met Miss Pross, Mrs. Darnay's companion. After a terrific struggle between the two women, Madame Defarge was accidentally shot by a loaded revolver which she had concealed in her bosom. The effect of the shot was so great on Miss Pross that the doctors fear that she will not recover her sense of hearing.

POPULAR FRENCH NOBLE
GIVES UP TITLE

Paris, May 2.—Charles, former French nobleman, has given up his title, including the name, Evremonde and departed for England. His marriage to Miss Lucy Manette took place shortly after his arrival in England. Mr. Darnay is at present holding the position as instructor of French in London.

It seems that Mr. Charles Evremonde, now Darnay, was in strong sympathy with the oppressed class of people in Paris and that he felt it an injustice to them to demand their time and labor in retaining the nobility. Rather than continue to live under those circumstances, he had given up all individual rights as a noble and departed for England to be in time recognized as an English citizen.

De Farge's Revolutionists Defeat
Marquis' Militia

Paris, Sept. 17.—Jacques, the Paris blonde, was almost wholly responsible for the timely defeat of the Marquis' Militia by the De Farge's Revolutionists yesterday afternoon. This victory put the De Fargers in running for the Big Two Conference championship.

Jacques took the ball from his own one yard line around end to the opposing two yard line where Fonlon, the Calais pile driver put it over for a touchdown. Jacques then kicked goal for the other point.

The Paris blue-coats were put to rout when they endeavored to put down the De Farge rooters.

The Lorry Stadium, by the River Seine, was the scene of the conflict.

BATTLE FOR WORLD TITLE

Jerry Cruncher Defeats John Barsad
in a Fifteen Round
Battle

Paris, Sept. 18.—At 2:30 p. m. today in the Paris theatre on Second street 15,000 people witnessed a battle in which Jerry Cruncher defeated John Barsad, heavyweight champion, in a fifteen round battle. The fight lasted 1 hour and 10 minutes.

The two opponents came together with a clash in the first round which resulted in the gallant Jerry going through the ropes only to come back with more force than ever. The fourth round soon came, Jerry was going good. In the fifth round John Barsad gave a left hook to Jerry's jaw which flattened him out for 3 seconds. In the eighth round Mr. Barsad was pretty well beaten up, but he fought gallantly till the middle of the fifteenth round in which Jerry delivered an uppercut to Barsad's chin which flattened him out for two hours. Jerry was given many cheers and then he retired.

Tellson's Bank

Tellson's bank is near Temple Bar, which is an ancient gateway. It was an old-fashioned place even in the year of 1792. It is very small, very dark, and very ugly, but the partners are proud of its dinginess, lack of light, and ugliness. Tellson's, they say, want no light. Anyone of these partners would disinherit his son if he suggested rebuilding Tellson's.

After bursting open a door, which has a weak rattle in its throat, you fall into Tellson's down two steps and come to your senses in a miserable little shop with two little counters. Your money comes out of or goes into wormy old wooden drawers and your bank notes have a musty odor.

If young men are employed at Tellson's London House, the manager hides them somewhere until they are old. The oldest of men carry on all the business gravely. Outside Tellson's is an odd job man, porter and messenger who never leaves his post unless on an errand and in the case his son takes his place. His name is Jerry Cruncher.

SYDNEY CARTON
SACRIFICES LIFECHARLES DARNAY IS THE INNO-
CENT CAUSE OF RASH
DEED

Sydney Carton rode in the largest tumbler to the guillotine here yesterday in the place of Charles Evremonde, called Darnay. The strong resemblance of the two parties enabled this to take place. He saved the life of a friend and ex-noble, who was falsely condemned to die.

Police believe that Carton was admitted to the prison by a spy who secretly helped him drug Evremonde and change clothes. As the two bear strong resemblance to each other, it is believed that the ex-noble was taken from the country by his own family without their knowledge of his being the Evremonde, but thought he was Sydney Carton. Evidence shows that the relatives of Charles had been instructed by Carton to wait for him and had gone to England believing that it was Carton that accompanied them.

If Carton had an accomplice in his act of heroism, he was all the more heroic to go to his death under the gaze of the blood-thirsty mob without betraying the spy that admitted him to the prison.

Monseigneur and Madame DeFarge were very much disappointed when they heard this news as they were intent upon sending the whole Evremonde family to their death. Mr. S.: "Come." (Mr. Lorry enters; Mr. Stryver glances up and lays book aside.)

Mr. Lorry: "Good evening, my dear Stryver."

Mr. Stryver: "Good evening; have a chair." (Mr. Lorry sits down in a chair near the couch. Mr. Stryver gets up and sits on end of couch.)

Mr. L.: "Well, I have been to Soho."

Mr. S.: "To Soho? Oh, to be sure. What am I thinking of?"

Mr. L.: "I assure you I was right in the conversation we had this forenoon. My opinion is confirmed and I reiterate my advice."

Mr. S.: "I assure you that I am sorry for it on your account and sorry for it on the poor girl's account. I know this must always be a sore subject with her family to lose a fine fellow like me. Let's say no more about it."

Mr. L.: "I dare say I don't understand you."

Mr. S.: "I suppose not." (Nods head slowly.) "No matter, no matter."

Mr. L.: "But it does matter!"

Mr. S.: "No, it doesn't! (Stryver fumbles with book and looks very much unconcerned.) "I assure you it doesn't. Having supposed that there was any sense where there wasn't any and a laudable ambition where there was no laudable ambition, I am quite well aware of the mistake I was about to make. But no harm is done. Stryver becomes more interested.) Young women have committed similar follies and have repented in poverty. In an unselfish aspect I am sorry the thing has dropped, because it would have been a worldly point of view; a man of my position could hardly afford to sacrifice his standing in the professional world; people might not have understood, but no harm is done, my dear Lorry." (Silence for a minute.) "I am much obliged to you for allowing me to sound you in giving me your advice; you know the young lady better than I. You were right, it never would have done."

(Mr. Lorry is very much taken aback at Mr. Stryver's attitude.)

Mr. L.: "Well of all things, I never!" (Mr. Lorry rises, puts on gloves, slowly adjusts top coat and fumbles hat. Mr. Stryver talks while Mr. Lorry is doing these things.)

Mr. S.: "Make the best of it, my dear Lorry; say no more about it; thanking you again for allowing me to sound you. Good night." (Exits.)

(Mr. Stryver picks up book, lies down on couch and blinks at the ceiling.)

55,000 AT THE MINN.-MICH. GAME

HOME COMING

GAME SET FOR SATY., NOV. 20

TEMPORARY BLEACHERS PROVIDED FOR THE OVERFLOW CROWD

4,500 EXTRA TICKETS SO PROVIDED ARE QUICKLY SNAPPED UP

Minneapolis, Nov. 16.—(UP)—An attendance of 55,000 is indicated for Minnesota's homecoming game with Michigan Saturday.

Providing temporary bleachers at the open end of the Memorial Stadium horseshoe, Minnesota authorities today put on sale additional tickets after 4,500 were snapped up Monday by fans, some of whom camped outside the ticket office all night.

Four tickets to one person is the limit.

Every man on Dr. Clarence W. Spears' eleven is in the best of physical condition with all previous injuries healed.

Original "Star Rover"

A prisoner in San Quentin named Morrell was the original leading character in the "Star Rover" by Jack London. When he was a boy, he was a member of an outlaw gang in California. He was captured and condemned to life imprisonment. Because he rebelled he was condemned to years of solitary imprisonment in a dark cell. For long periods he was placed in a "jacket" into which he was strapped as tightly as three men could lace him. Morrell found that while he was being tortured he could hypnotize himself. His experiences were incorporated in Jack London's novel.

Driven by Necessity

A shiftless husband has developed many a female financier, says the Chicago News.

Success Fired Poe

Edgar Allan Poe was in dire need of money when in 1833 he read in the Saturday Visitor of Baltimore the announcement of a prize contest, in which $100 was offered for the best story, and $50 for the best poem. He wrote a series of six tales to be called "Tales of the Folio Club," for the prose entry and for the poetry contest he wrote "The Coliseum." With high hopes he left his contributions at the office of the Saturday Visitor, relates the Washington Post. He was on hand the following Saturday before the first papers were off the press, and when he obtained a copy he found spread before him his own story—the prize winner, "The MS. Found in a Bottle," together with an article of praise and encouragement from the judges. This success proved an inspiration to Poe and brought many successful stories and poems from his pen.

Primitive Bookkeeping

The old Acadians, or Cajuns, of southwestern Louisiana were a primitive people. Their customs, if quaint, were often ingenious. In those early days the sole intruders from the outside world were the commercial travelers. They saw some curious things.

One of them, making the round of the prairie in his buggy, stopped at a boutique, or small Cajun store. The proprietor could neither read nor write. Nevertheless, he had a card index system of credit of his own. This he kept upon pieces of plank, putting down first the mark peculiar to each debtor. Afterward he added a picture of each article that was bought and charged. An admirable system.—Adventure Magazine.

Some Mistake

A Great Bend husband sent his wife flowers by a messenger boy on her birthday, and she sent them back, saying it must be the wrong address. "I guess I know my husband better than you," she said.—Capper's Weekly.

NEW "WORLD FEATHERWEIGHT CHAMPION" IS CROWNED

AT NO TIME WAS "HONEYBOY" FINNEGAN IN DISTRESS

Boston, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Dick (Honeyboy) Finnegan of Dorchester today had a golden belt to prove that he was the new "world's featherweight champion."

He received this "championship" emblem at the Boston arena last night after being awarded the decision in his 10 round bout with Chick Suggs, New Bedford negro.

Some 15,000 fight fans, a record indoor crowd for New England, saw the Dorchester feather best his negro opponent in seven of the 10 rounds of a battle billed as a "world's championship match."

At no time was the Honeyboy in danger but on three occasions he had Suggs in distress. Finnegan at 125 3-4 had a slight advantage over his opponent who weighed 124. Despite Finnegan's victory and his championship belt, sporting authorities were dubious today as to whether he stood any chance of being generally recognized as the successor to Louis (Kid) Kaplan, who vacated the world's feather title some some time ago.

Come On Over, Have a Bath

There are few bath tubs in Nome, Alaska, so those who do possess them invite their neighbors to come over and have a bath, much as women in more advanced communities invite each other to come over for a cup of tea. Persons not fortunate enough to be invited out to bathe must pay 75 cents for the privilege at a public bathhouse.

OPEN TENNIS IN NEAR FUTURE IS PREDICTED

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Nov. 16.—When C. C. Pyle turned his attention from Red Grange and his professional football league to tennis and signed Suzanne Lenglen, Mary K. Browne, Vinnie Richards and Howard Kinsey as a troupe of professionals, he predicted that the move he initiated would result in the recognition of open tennis tournaments in which amateurs could play against pros.

The idea of even considering any relations between amateur and professional players was at first considered by some of the lords of American tennis to be so radical that it was almost blasphemous.

The rank and file of tennis patrons, known in boxing and baseball as the customers, without whose support tennis would be a game for the idle rich had some respect for the guardian angel role the association assumed but on closer inspection the attitude of the governing body was found to be just as radically narrow as Pyle's was broad.

Considering that open competition and sanctioned competition between amateur and professional players had not only failed to ruin golf but had been responsible for a very great increase of public interest in the game, a large part of what Bill Tilden calls his public weighed the arguments for and against open tennis and asked:

"Why not?"

Following the tactics and strategy of national politics, the politicians of amateur tennis very obviously are employing feelers to sound out the public before they go on record one way or another and in answer to that question, "Why not?" their semi-silent reply seems to be: "Well, we'll bite. Why not?"

Jones W. Mersereau, making it clear that he was speaking for himself and not as the president of the United States Lawn Tennis association, said recently that an organization of tennis professionals would be beneficial to the game. But his private opinion means just as much as his official opinion. The directing minds of American tennis represent such a close corporation that Mersereau would not have dared to commit himself, even privately, if he had not the assurance that his fellows on the "board of directors" concurred in his opinion.

It did not require the inference obtained in the statement of its president to carry the conviction that the association considers professional tennis as established and open tennis as sure to come. The inference shows that the association wants to make the best of a complicated situation by jumping in and taking the control of the side lines of tennis from C. C. Pyle, even at the expense of a humiliating backflip.

Before the unofficial opinion of the association was made public, George Agutter, professional at the West Side Tennis club, Forest Hills and his assistant, Paul Heston, sailed for Europe to compete in the winter professional matches on the continent.

This trip had more significance than all the official statements that the association could have made in support of professional and open tennis.

Agutter, considered by many to be the greatest tennis player in the world, has been the professional at the West Side club for years and has won the respect of the association for the interest that he showed in the development of juvenile players.

The West Side club, owner of the greatest tennis stadium in the United States, is the dictator and over-lord of the whole association. Practically all of the responsible positions of authority in the association have been and are still held by officials who are members of the West Side club.

It is quite obvious that Agutter, on his own initiative would have undertaken such a mission. It is quite obvious that he had been given good reasons to believe that he would not draw the wrath of the tennis gods on him by going to Europe to start the organization of a professional society and to recruit a large number of European professionals for a pro championship tournament that is almost certain to be held at the West Side club next season.

It is a safe guess that the association encouraged or even suggested that Agutter set out on this piece of missionary work. Being the pioneer in such a movement, Agutter would be almost certain of the presidency of any professional association that might be organized and through Agutter the association would be in a position to supervise, by proxy at least, the activities of the professionals.

Pyle got the first jump on the association but it is plainly apparent that the association is going to take the second jump and cover more territory than the initial leap of Pyle.

makes a pipe perform!

PUT it down for a fact here and now—if you don't know Prince Albert, you don't know how well that old pipe of yours can perform. You're going to find this out by personal experience some day. You may as well cut the corners and start today.

Buy yourself a tidy red tin of P. A. now. Open it up and let that fragrance of real, honest-to-goodness tobacco tell its own story. Then pack a wad of it into the bowl of your pipe and light up. The first pull will tell you no other tobacco ever tasted so good.

P. A. is so cool in a pipe . . . so refreshingly cool and sweet. It seems you never will get enough of it. Fortunately, P. A. is mild enough to let you smoke all you want. And it has body enough to make you want to. You try it and see!

You may think you are all set on a smoke-program. Never mind. Just wait till you have smoked Prince Albert! A pipe just hasn't had a chance if it has never been filled with P. A. Get some today! It will be a revelation. It will, for a fact!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Aro in a statement made a short while ago said that he did not have a gun when he held up the hotel. He said that from a story he had read he got the idea of making the people think he had a gun by pointing his finger at them inside his coat pocket.

COMMENCE DRIVE AGAINST RATS

Campaign for Extermination of Rats Opens in Brainerd

COOPERATION URGED

Women to Work With Health Department in Removal of Pests

Miss Helen Clay Caldwell, of Ashland, Kentucky, rat extermination campaign conductor during the last four years in 34 states, Canada, Alaska, and Honolulu, is in Brainerd and during this week will work with the city board of health in an effort to exterminate all rodents in the city. She is assisted by Miss Anna May Wright.

Miss Helen Clay Caldwell

In order to successfully exterminate rats it is necessary that all citizens cooperate and do their work at the same time, otherwise the rats will merely move from one house to another according to Dr. R. A. Beise, city health officer. If the work is to be effective no breeding places must be missed. This necessitates the personal supervision of some individual, he said.

The city health department has from time to time stressed the necessity of rat extermination campaigns in Brainerd, not only from the standpoint of financial loss but because rats are also a constant menace to the health of the community. Dr. Beise estimates that there are two rats for every person in Brainerd and the cost of upkeep for these rats is large. The government health service estimates that there is at least one rat per capita of human population in urban communities in the United States and the cost of upkeep is one half cent per rat per day.

In her work Miss Caldwell teaches the U. S. Public Health Service

method of killing rats, the use of barium carbonate, which is the only rat poison recommended by the government. Its effect on the rat is such as to cause strangulation, thus causing them to seek the open air and water, so that it can be used successfully in buildings as there will be no danger of the objectionable odor of dying rats.

Today Miss Caldwell started organizing the business houses, working by blocks. She will show the merchants how to mix and spread the poison.

The health department urges that every citizen cooperate with Miss Caldwell and make this "Rat Extermination Week," in Brainerd.

All local Legionnaires are looking forward expectantly to the Legion duck banquet which will be given at the Chamber of Commerce club rooms, on Thursday evening, November 18, at 7 o'clock. The gathering will be auspicious by the presence of Rufus R. Rand, Jr., of Minneapolis, newly elected state commander, a boyhood friend of Basil T. Heath, and also M. F. Murray of St. Cloud, commander of the Sixth District.

Fred Sargent is preparing the feast of ducks and other delicacies for the banquet. Hagberg, and Ira Holman, members of the general committee are preparing the evening's program. Basil Heath will be toastmaster.

The Legion quartet from Minneapolis has been secured and the sweet strains of a special orchestra will be heard during the banquet. The membership drive which has been under the captainship of Earl O'Brien and Kirk Smith will come to a close and the losing team will do the serving at the banquet, and also act as "K. P's."

Members of the G. A. R. have been asked to attend and all in all, with the music, community singing, speeches, etc., that have been scheduled, the evening is certain to go down as a success in the annals of the Legion's history.

Four Legion posts from other cities have been invited and a large gathering has been assured. Mr. Murray and Attorney Murphy from Crosby, who is also to be on the program, have spoken at former banquets here and are popular with the Legionnaires having a reputation for being highly interesting speakers.

Reservations are going fast and all men of the Legion are asked to come in touch with Ray Hall as soon as possible to avoid disappointment.

PLEADED GUILTY

F. Wright to serve an indeterminate sentence not to exceed five years in the St. Cloud reformatory.

Aro pleaded guilty to robbery in the third degree, authorities being unable to prove whether he carried a gun at the time of the holdup.

Aro in a statement made a short while ago said that he did not have a gun when he held up the hotel. He said that from a story he had read he got the idea of making the people think he had a gun by pointing his finger at them inside his coat pocket.

COMMENCE DRIVE AGAINST RATS

Campaign for Extermination of Rats Opens in Brainerd

COOPERATION URGED

Women to Work With Health Department in Removal of Pests

Miss Helen Clay Caldwell, of Ashland, Kentucky, rat extermination campaign conductor during the last four years in 34 states, Canada, Alaska, and Honolulu, is in Brainerd and during this week will work with the city board of health in an effort to exterminate all rodents in the city. She is assisted by Miss Anna May Wright.

Miss Helen Clay Caldwell

In order to successfully exterminate rats it is necessary that all citizens cooperate and do their work at the same time, otherwise the rats will merely move from one house to another according to Dr. R. A. Beise, city health officer. If the work is to be effective no breeding places must be missed. This necessitates the personal supervision of some individual, he said.

The city health department has from time to time stressed the necessity of rat extermination campaigns in Brainerd, not only from the standpoint of financial loss but because rats are also a constant menace to the health of the community. Dr. Beise estimates that there are two rats for every person in Brainerd and the cost of upkeep for these rats is large. The government health service estimates that there is at least one rat per capita of human population in urban communities in the United States and the cost of upkeep is one half cent per rat per day.

In her work Miss Caldwell teaches the U. S. Public Health Service

method of killing rats, the use of barium carbonate, which is the only rat poison recommended by the government. Its effect on the rat is such as to cause strangulation, thus causing them to seek the open air and water, so that it can be used successfully in buildings as there will be no danger of the objectionable odor of dying rats.

Today Miss Caldwell started organizing the business houses, working by blocks. She will show the merchants how to mix and spread the poison.

The health department urges that every citizen cooperate with Miss Caldwell and make this "Rat Extermination Week," in Brainerd.

Don't Tell the Wife

BY WILLIAM B. COURTNEY

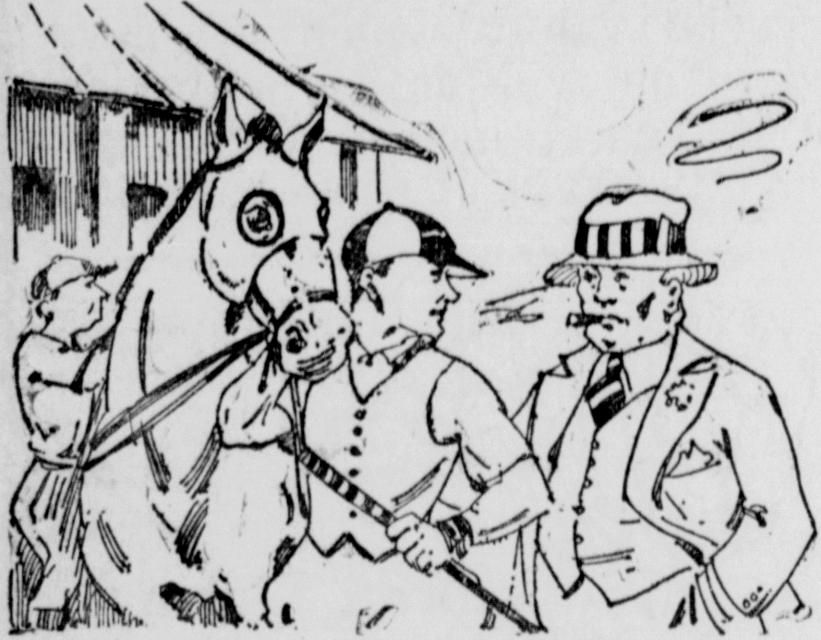

Copyright 1926 Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"DON'T TELL THE WIFE," starring Irene Rich, is a Warner Bros. picture of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

The hot and stubborn temper of Ranny Forbes, star polo player, and his beautiful wife, Joan, result in temperamental storms that furnish elite society with choice gossip. Joan wants a divorce, but Ranny earnestly avows to his chum, Clay, that he loves her. Worse, he confides his secret discovery that she is in love with another man, Abner Gratman. Stivner, a lumber king with whom Ranny has been negotiating a gigantic business deal, tells him he has wagered fifty thousand on Ranny's team in the Westbury Cup finals. Ranny sees that victory will mean business good will. Interest is lent the situation when Ranny learns that the wager is with—Abner Gratman! Ranny makes a phenomenal goal.

Never before in the history of international polo had so mighty a stroke been uncorked, nor, indeed, a goal achieved, with the first chukker but a scant thirty seconds under way. Of course there was no boisterous cheering. One does not cheer within a radius of fifty Etiquette Book paragraphs from Meadow Brook. One applauds. So hands that had never touched dishwater were smacked vigorously together until gentle rumbles were heard and reddened. Voices that had never taken on the brass of commerce cried: "Great shot, Forbes! Bully work, America!" Youngsters and oldsters raised something of a clamor with auto horns. Many young girls squeaked a bit, and Stivner glared heartily. But only down in the paddock was there more enthusiasm than politeness. There Ranny's hand-legged groom alternately turned handsprings and ejaculated to no one in particular: "Stryke me pink! Stryke me pink!"

"You'll find him in my car, talking to my wife!" said Ranny.

The Argentines galloped, rather than cantered, back to midfield, so impatient were they for the second toss-in and a chance to retrieve this immediate advantage their friendly enemies had secured. But Nos. 1, 2 and 3 of Ranny's side closed in and rode stirrup to stirrup with him at a somewhat less eager pace, boyishly glorying in the blood that had been drawn rather than testing that still to be shed. Polo, after all, is a game for men with the hearts of boys.

It was the essential boyishness of his nature that made Ranny sulky. He exulted in the fact that he had meant, but for his reaction upon the object of his jealousy and contempt. He managed a furtive glance back toward the sedan. It was not hard to conjure up a delightful picture of the chagrin on Abner's dark face.

Into it again. There! Take it, Number 1! Ride him out, 2—ride him out. Ah, a beautiful long diagonal pass and a saffron Argentine back streaking after it, dribbling it along with short, snappy strokes until he should come within range of the Tornadoes' goal. A clear shot ahead of him. Uncovered! "After him, Ranny, after him!" But Ranny had hesitated instantly, his thoughts with Joan and Abner in the car instead of on the shimmering 300 by 150 yard expanse of playing field. Awake now, and in pursuit! But too late. "Go it, Judy!"

The game mad mare stretched out at full tilt until her lean little belly almost scraped the ground between her flying feet. Man and mare a giddy oneness. Ranny flattened up over her neck jockeywise, giving her free head. There! The Argentine has placed the ball beautifully for a straightaway try at the goal, only eighty yards away. He spurs at the almost motionless sphere, all the confidence in the world in the free swing of his mallet, the easy way in which he stands in his stirrups for a toe-hold and throws his weight over to his hitting side. Swish!

But wait! Judy has rushed her snorting nostrils into the picture. Ranny's mallet flashes overhead in a cross back stroke and meets the ball simultaneously with the Argentine's forward smash. The ball is knocked off at a tangent. The Tornadoes' goal remains virgin. Ranny veered Judy sharply, expertly, so as to avoid the fullest brunt of the unavoidable side-swiping collision with the Argentine, then threw her back on her haunches, pivoting her in one of those miraculously short turns that only a thoroughbred polo pony, whose heart is in the game, can make. Now the other six men had thundered down, and the ball was knocked on its erratic way.

Ranny and Judy, both breathing dead, the little mare quivering and snorting in the awful excitement of the reckless play, tore after the field. Always there was a vision of a laughing face before Ranny's eyes, a taunting grin whose erasure by prowess was demanded by pride. Always it was Ranny and Judy who aborted Argentinean tries, who broke up rallies in front of the Tornadoes' posts. Judy sometimes by kicking and pecking at the ball with her precious little forefeet; Ranny by vicious reaches; both by hard and spectacular riding, regardless of danger. No one could ride out an opponent with such utterly reckless disregard of life and limb as Ranny; no pony could stand the cruel bruising with such fortitude as Judy.

A ball rang. The seven and a half minutes of the first of eight chukkers were up; three minutes to change ponies. There would be seven between the fourth and fifth chukkers; time for a bit of respite then. But now, just enough to dash down to the paddock; off the weary, onto the fresh.

Ranny took out Firebug for the second chukker. Milkmaid would be ready for the third. Then Judy again—Judy, the favorite. Meantime, Stivner seized advantage of the chance for an abbreviated chat with Ranny, talking even while the

RONALD COLMAN and LOIS MORAN in "STELLA DALLAS"

Flappers and Flapjacks in "Stella Dallas" with All the Appurtenances Thereof

Flappers, the female of the species, and flapjacks, the male counterpart, have their innings galore in "Stella Dallas" which opens tonight at the Lyceum for three days.

Youth and beauty in and about an exclusive summer resort have full play in this production which is a romantic drama, from Olive Higgins Prouty's celebrated novel.

Of the two more important young folk in the picture, special note is given to Lois Moran, the wistful modernized girl, who plays the part of Laurel, daughter of "Stella."

Lois Moran is not a flapper. She has been called a "fragile cameo."

Young Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in his romantic movement, exemplifies the semi-awkward, bashful youth with a care-free flare to his actions.

Besides Lois Moran and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., the cast in "Stella Dallas" includes Ronald Colman, Belle Bennett, Alice Joyce and Jean Hersholt.

Mark Civilization

Just as telegraph poles marked the westward advance of civilization, so other products of the forest have kept pace with Uncle Sam's growth and made it possible. The American Tree association says 5,000,000 trees are cut every year for telegraph and telephone poles and that 500,000,000 fence posts are used every year.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for only 75 cents. This is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous and you appear years younger.—Advt.

Tanlac Rescues Mrs. Coates

Health Shattered, Mrs. Coates Manages to Avert Disaster. Her Health and Strength Restored.

"I want men and women who are facing the misery I went through, to know how I regained my health and strength," says Mrs. Mayme Coates, 2551 S. Third St., Burlington, Iowa.

"For many months I had catarrh of the stomach. Indigestion upset my nerves and I became pale and discouraged. My heart bothered, blinding headaches and dizziness made me weak and fretful. I lost weight steadily and could not be amiable no matter how I tried."

"When I began taking Tanlac I weighed only 100 pounds. Today I weigh 115. Tanlac gave me an appetite, relieved stomach troubles and steadied my nerves. It restored my former vigorous health."

Tanlac usually builds up scrawny, weak bodies, drives out causes of suffering. It is nature's remedy made from roots, barks and herbs. Take it regularly. At your druggist's.

Babies Love It

For all stomach and intestinal troubles and disturbances due to teething, there is nothing better than a safe Infants' and Children's Laxative.

Mrs. Winslow's Syrup

Women Need a Mild Laxative—Not a "Physic"

Countless girls and women now know how foolish and needless it is to "purge" and "physic" themselves to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, sallow skin, colds, or sour, gassy stomach.

They have found that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those heretofore chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate girl or woman. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

Don't Tell the Wife

BY WILLIAM B. COURTNEY

Copyright 1926 Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"DON'T TELL THE WIFE," starring Irene Rich, is a Warner Bros. picture of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

The hot and stubborn temper of Ranny Forbes, star polo player, and his beautiful wife, Joan, result in temperamental storms that furnish elite society with choice gossip. Joan wants a divorce, but Ranny earnestly avows to his chum, Clay, that he loves her. Worse, he confesses his secret discovery that she is in love with another man, Abner Gratan. Stinner, a lumber king with whom Ranny has been negotiating a gigantic business deal, tells him he has wagered fifty thousand on Ranny's team in the Westbury Cup finals. Ranny sees that victory will mean business good will. Interest is lent the situation when Ranny learns that the wager is with—Abner Gratan! Ranny makes a phenomenal goal.

Never before in the history of international polo had so mighty a stroke been uncorked, nor, indeed, a goal achieved, with the first chukker but a scant thirty seconds under way. Of course there was no boisterous cheering. One does not cheer within a radius of fifty Elginette Book paragraphs from Meadow Brook. One applauds. So hands that had never touched dishwater were smacked vigorously to gether until gaudy palms smarted and reddened. Voices that had never taken on the brass of commerce cried: "Great shot, Forbes! Bully work, America! Youngsters and oldsters raised something of a clamor with auto horns. Many young girls squealed a bit, and Stinner gloated heartily. But only down in the paddock was there more enthusiasm than politeness. There Ranny's bandy-legged groom alternately turned handsprings and ejaculated to no one in particular: "Stryke me pink! Stryke me pink!"

"You'll find him in my car, talking to my wife!" said Ranny.

The Argentines galloped, rather than cantered, back to midfield, so impatient were they for the second toss-in and a chance to retrieve this immediate advantage their friendly enemies had secured. But Nos. 1, 2 and 3 of Ranny's side closed in and rode stirrup to stirrup with him at a somewhat less eager pace, boyishly glorying in the blood that had been drawn rather than testing that still to be shed. Polo, after all, is a game for men with the hearts of boys.

It was the essential boyishness of his nature that made Ranny sulkyly exit in his shot, not for what it had meant, but for his reaction upon the object of his jealousy and contempt. He managed a furtive glance back toward the sedan. It was not hard to conjure up a delightful picture of the chagrin on Abner's dark face.

Into it again. There! Take it. Number 1! Ride him out, 2—ride him out. Ah, a beautiful long diagonal pass and a saffron Armon Forbes, like streaking after it, dribbling it along with short, snappy strokes until he should come within range of the Tornadoes' goal. A clear shot ahead of him. Uncovered! "After him, Ranny, after him!" But Ranny had hesitated inertly, his thoughts with Joan and Abner in the car instead of on the shimmering 300 by 150 yard expanse of playing field. Awake now, and in pursuit! But too late. "Go it, Judy!"

The game and mare stretched out at full tilt until her lean little belly almost scraped the ground between her flying feet. Man and mare a giddy oneness. Ranny flattened up over her neck jockeywise, giving her free head. There! The Argentine has placed the ball beautifully for a straightway try at the goal, only eighty yards away. He spurs at the almost motionless sphere, in the confidence in the world in the free swing of his mallet, the easy way in which he stands in his stirrups for a toehold and throws his weight over to his hitting side. Swish!

But wait! Judy has rushed her snorting nostrils into the picture. Ranny's mallet flashes overhead in a cross back stroke and meets the ball simultaneously with the Argentine's forward smash. The ball is perspiring star was transferring from Judy to Firebug.

"Marvelous work, Forbes. The greatest single stroke I've ever seen, and I've watched polo twenty years and in twenty countries. A man who can swing a mallet like you ought to be in the lumber business!" jocosely.

"If that proposition we've been discussing goes through I guess I'll be in the lumber business," said Ranny, as humorously.

Stinner chuckled cordially. "The satisfaction of winning my wager—and, even greater, of seeing your wonderful play win for America—won't make me illy disposed toward you, now will it?"

The lumber king, whose social and business power made him undeniably a personage of immense distinction, was obviously as boyishly proud of his privilege in talking to the star polo player as a sand lot kid would be in talking to Babe Ruth. "Seriously," went on Stinner, "you and I have much in common, Forbes. I hope we'll see a lot of each other hereafter. For the present I'm going to look up Gratan and see if he'd like to double the bet."

"You'll find him in my car talking to my wife!" said Ranny, so bitterly that Stinner arched his brows.

Ranny burned up the grass with Firebug getting to midfield. "It's Ranny's day," gloated the spectators, seeing his incendiary riding. The backdraft of this talk reached the Forbes' sedan.

"You look quite proud of—him!" pouted Abner.

"If Ranny were half as attentive a husband as he is a poloist he could make any woman happy," Joan said quite femininely—and a bit wistfully.

Abner frowned. It would not do to have Ranny become again a hero in his wife's eyes. Then there was that bet! Abner aroused himself, slipped out of the car and threaded furtively down the rear of the sidelines towards the paddock, where Milkmaid was already saddled for Ranny's use in the next chukker. As he sneaked along he fingered a pocketknife thoughtfully; small, but sharp enough to cut through stirrup strap leather!
